RUSTIN'S FIRST TO MARKET QUICK-DRY WORKTOP OIL

Customers who want to protect their natural kitchen surfaces will welcome the launch of Rustin's new Worktop Oil.

A unique water-borne blend of natural plant oils and other special ingredients, Rustin's new Worktop Oil not only nourishes and protects all types of timber but also adds warmth and depth to all woods. It's also the first quick-drying wooden work surface treatment, leaving a durable and water-resistant seal which isn't vulnerable to scratching or chipping.

Rustin's Worktop Oil is solvent free and conforms to 'The Materials and Articles in Contact with Food Regulations' (2005). Any concerned customers can, therefore, be reassured about using Worktop Oil in the kitchen or in any other food-related environment. Production is also environmentally friendly, with plant oils used in the formulation originating from sustainable sources and replacing crude oil derived components.

Rustin's new quick-dry Worktop Oil is available in 500 ml and 1 litre tins with RRP's (ex-VAT) of £6.76 and £12.76 respectively. 1 litre will cover around 13 square metres per coat depending on the absorbency of the wood.

Note for editors.

Rustins have been manufacturing quality wood finishing products for over 80 years. The range, which has an international reputation, includes wood preparation products, wood finishes, floor finishes, speciality paints, decorating sundries and renovators. Their Danish Oil is a well-respected easy wipe-on low lustre finish for all types of wood; highly specialised products include Yacht Varnish, based on Tung Oil to give maximum protection and durability, and Strypit, a paint and varnish remover, which is used extensively by antique furniture restorers as it does not remove the patina acquired through age on old furniture.
